TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1859.

The Journal accuses us of seeking to turn to partisan account the late occurrences at Harper's Ferry, and would make the impression that we charge the masses of the Republican party with complicity in the treason. This we utterly deny. We did and do assert that the leaders of this great Republican party are in league with treason, and that the teachings of their leaders are fraught with the direst consequences to the country, and that any one who would counsel or lead our people into an alliance with them is an enemy to the best interests of the State.

But the Journal, thinking its crimes against the Democratic party are of so ancient a date and aggravated a character that it cannot hope for forgiveness, like Burley of Kenlock, seeks to lead its party into such an alliance as to preclude a reconciliation. We mean no disparagement of the body of the Northern people; it is a Democratic article of faith that the masses are virtuous, though the leaders may be vile, and that thousands of good men have been led into the Republican heresy is not to be wondered at, when we have seen so many of our own good citizens following the erratic teachings of the Journal.

It is the most difficult thing in the world to combat successfully the early impressions of idolatry, and in its next to impossible to make converts of those in advanced life, for they are very apt to relapse. We have ourselves seen old men return to the faith of their childhood after spending half a century in heaping abuse upon it. It is upon this principle in human nature that we account for the freesoil proclivities and the preferences for abolition allusions displayed by the Journal. Now in its "sear and yellow leaf," the lessons of its first childhood come back upon it with a resistible force, and hence the warmth of its denunciations of those who prefer other associations to the disparagement of its own; although those preferences may be in accordance with a true and perfect loyalty to the State and General Government, and in the spirit of that chivalric declaration of the convention of '18, that "Kentucky would not separate herself from the slave States of the South, nor desert her brethren in a common danger."

The Journal is mad. Its temper has the better of its judgment. It does not exhibit half its usual sagacity in the conduct of a controversy; but rather displays a consciousness of guilt, and make an effort to divert attention from the point in issue to our shortcomings. Because we have tracked the old fox to his den, we are denounced for groveling in the dust to unearthing him. But it is natural: Thief never felt the halter draw With good opinion of the law.

If we are contracted to the "narrowest partisanship," it comes of the necessity of following faithfully the course pursued by the Journal; and our obligations to the public render this duty imperative. We much prefer a nobler fight, and would gladly follow him "upon the wings of the morning," would he but take to them; but we fear, without amendment, that he will make his bed where the Psalmist says he may also meet his God.

Kentucky Military Institute.
We hear, as an affair of public interest in our vicinity, that the "Kentucky Military Institute" has now an hundred and twenty cadets—a greater number, we are informed, than at this period of any former session since its establishment, twenty years ago.—Frankfort Yeoman.

The people of Frankfort and of Central Kentucky seem to be proud of their Military College, and we dare say with reason. It is said to be a superior establishment, the building and grounds are in excellent order, and the institution affords every advantage for a thorough education. Missouri Republican.

The above is clipped from a late St. Louis paper. We admit we are somewhat proud of our Military College. It is an institution of the State, so that the honors awarded its graduates are conferred by the Governor of the Commonwealth over the seal of the State. It is situated in our county, and in the vicinity of our capital. But our pride in the present prospective success of the educational institutions of Kentucky is not confined to this popular college. It may be safely affirmed—we believe from what we have heard—that every college, academy, and high school in the State, whether male or female, opened its session this autumn with an increased number of students; and that they are all increasing constantly; whilst several additional institutions, on extensive scales and with ample endowments, are being established. We will only mention the college of the "Christian Church" at Harrodsburg, which will doubtless soon be organized into an university, and be fully entitled to that denomination.

A TOUCHING ANECDOTE.—Hon. A. H. Stephens, of Georgia, in a recent address at a meeting in Alexandria, for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum and Free Schools of that city, related the following anecdote:

A poor little boy, in a cold night in June, with no home or roof to shelter his head, no parental or maternal guardian or guide to protect or direct him on his way, reached at nightfall the house of a rich planter, who took him in, fed, lodged, and sent him on his way with his blessing. These kind attentions cheered his heart, and inspired him with fresh courage to battle with the obstacles of life. Years rolled round; Providence led him on; he had reached the legal profession, his host had died; the cormorants that prey on the substance of man had formed a conspiracy to get from the widow her estates. She sent for the nearest counsel to commit her cause to him, and that counsel proved to be the orphan boy, who before welcomed and entertained by her deceased husband. The stimulus of a warm and tenacious gratitude was now added to the ordinary motive connected with the profession. He undertook her cause with a will not easily to be resisted; he gained it; the widow's estates were secured to her perpetuity; and Mr. Stephens added with a triumph of emotion that sent its electric thrill throughout the house, "that orphan boy stand before you!"

There is a prospect of a shoot between two Indianapolis Brown Republican editors. Mr. Defrees, of the Atlas, and Mr. Heilsher, of the Free Press, are the parties. It was anticipated they would come to Kentucky to fight.

[For the Yeoman.]
Sergeant-at-Arms to the Senate.
Editor YEOMAN: In looking over the columns of your paper, I find the name of Robert W. Lawler, of your city, announced as a candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms of the State Senate. At this we were much pleased, and as we have been intimately acquainted with him for years, you must permit us to bring his name more prominently to the consideration of the Senate than can be done by a simple announcement. We do not wish to disparage any other name, (for we believe Mr. Lawler is willing to stand and rest his claims on his own particular and personal qualifications, worthiness, and fitness for the office; but we must say, in our opinion, Mr. Lawler is the man, and the right man.

Now, what constitutes Mr. Lawler's fitness for the office? We know, and others know him as a gentleman of high moral tone, and a strong sense of honor, courteous and affable, yet firm and prompt in whatever he undertakes—qualities especially necessary for a good officer. As a Democrat he is steady, firm, reliable, unswerving. He is a Democrat from principle. In the dark night of political minority he was a Democrat, because he believed the principles of our party were right. In the lowering and threatening storm engendered by the discussion of the "slavery question" he was a Democrat, because he thought our doctrines safe. When Know-Nothingism raised its hydra head, seducing thousands from their allegiance, he remained firm, because he wished, and maintained, that those who sought our shores for Liberty's sake, should be allowed the privileges of our institutions. And now, when the party has triumphed over its opponents, and the flag of victory proudly unfurled, he is still a Democrat, because he believes in the righteousness—I had almost said infallibility—of Democratic principles.

Such is the man who has suffered his name to be announced as a candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms, and as such, we unhesitatingly recommend him to the consideration of the Senate.

OWEN.
BAD NEWS FOR THE ABOLITIONISTS.—Our special Richmond despatch informs us that it has been decided on by the Virginia authorities to hand over Cooke—John Brown's Lieutenant—to be tried by the Federal Court in the Harper's Ferry district. The object of this is to have Seward, Greeley, Sanborn, Wilson, Hale, Forbes, Gerrit Smith, and all others who were implicated in the conspiracy, or who are known to have been in the secrets of the conspirators, subjected to a witness and placed on the stand to tell all they know in the matter. They are outside the jurisdiction of Virginia State courts, but not of the Federal courts.—N. Y. Herald.

In view of the above, we earnestly recommend to the people of the Louisville Journal office, if they are the depository of any dangerous secrets connected with the movements of their Republican allies, to act prudently, and, like Fred Douglass, take a trip on the underground railroad to Canada if their case requires it.

A MAN WILLS HIS FAMILY TO THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.—Lemuel Shovel, Esq., the wealthiest man in Worcester county, Md., and a life-time Whig, died on the 24th inst. The Easton Star says:

"On his death bed, we understood, he called his relatives around him, and told them he had willed them a very large property, but, from recent observations, he had become satisfied it would be of little value to them unless the Democratic party was successful. His dying request was, that all of his family and relatives should hereafter act with the Democratic party, which they promised to do, and are now with us. The Shovel family, we learn, numbers near a hundred in Worcester."

Messrs. Tripp & Cragg, wholesale and retail dealers in Pianos, Melodeons, and musical instruments of every description, besides music by the best authors, are in receipt of a large and well selected assortment which they are offering to their numerous customers at their exceedingly low prices. They especially invite all wanting articles in their line to give them a call before purchasing, as they are determined not to be undersold by any house in the city of Louisville. For further information read advertisement.

A lady has recovered 650 dollars damages from a railroad company in Ohio, from the act of one of its conductors, who put her off in the rain because she tendered a doubtful bill in payment of her fare. One of her children died from the exposure to the weather.

The Supreme Court of Illinois has decided it is lawful for the State to tax the banks upon the amount of notes actually issued for circulation, that being regarded as the "capital" of the banks. The cases disposed of by this decision have been pending for some time.

Mr. Robert Dissey of Union, Mo., aged eighty-four years, recently walked a distance of nineteen miles to pay the annual subscription for his newspaper. He did not complain of the least fatigue. Fine old fellow—honest man.

SLANDER.—At Litchfield, Grayson county, Ky., last week, R. E. Cox and wife recovered $4,000 damages, for slander, from Dr. Wm. Hall.

The Boston Post says President King, of Columbia College, through his wife, recently inherited $700,000.

A TOUCHING ANECDOTE.—Hon. A. H. Stephens, of Georgia, in a recent address at a meeting in Alexandria, for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum and Free Schools of that city, related the following anecdote:

A poor little boy, in a cold night in June, with no home or roof to shelter his head, no parental or maternal guardian or guide to protect or direct him on his way, reached at nightfall the house of a rich planter, who took him in, fed, lodged, and sent him on his way with his blessing. Proclamation by the Governor.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,
Executive Department.

Another abundant harvest has been gathered; another year of multiplied blessings is fast drawing to a close. The labors of the farmer, the mechanic, the manufacturer, and the merchant, the professional man, and the man of science, have been abundantly rewarded; commerce has revived, trade has improved, and thrift is apparent everywhere throughout the land. Neither war nor pestilence nor famine has afflicted us. Peace, plenty, and health have blessed a free, prosperous, and happy people. Providence has showered His blessings upon us as individuals, as a State, as a nation. We should return to Him the homage of grateful hearts. In the eager pursuit of pleasure, of fortune, or of fame—in the excitement of our daily occupations—in the multifarious pursuits of life, we are too apt to forget Him from whom these bounties come. Acknowledging no sovereign but Him, let us recognize the venerable custom of the "Jewish Feast of Weeks" appointed by Jehovah for his chosen people. For the establishment of, and preservation then, of our free institutions—for the preservation of our lives and health—for our tranquility, prosperity, and happiness—for our general thrift and the untold blessings we enjoy as a State and a people—

I, BERRIA MAGOFFIN, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby appoint and set apart THURSDAY, the 24th day of November next, as a day of THANKSGIVING AND PRAISE TO ALMIGHTY GOD, and recommend its appropriate observance by all the citizens of the Commonwealth.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort, this 14th day of October, A. D. 1859, and in the sixty-eighth year of the Commonwealth.

THE TRI-WEEKLY YEOMAN.

[From the Dublin University Magazine.]

Autumn.

Ruddy as gold is the chestnut tree
When autumn passes by;
No bleak wind craves the silent sea,
Which is blue as the maiden's eye.

The yellow sun through the forest leaves
Drops a thread of dancing light;
Young children sing the barley-sheaves,
And shout at the swallow's flight.

Yet earth is lonely. The woodlark's song
And the soft murmuring foam,
Seem ever to bring to the listening ear
Sweet songs of an unknown home.

The Test of Love.

"If I ever marry," said Margaret, Baily to her cousin Olivia, "it will be to a man who does not live entirely for himself, but who, out of the benevolence of the cry of the widow and orphan who call on him for relief."

"Because I feel it. I have always thought that a charitable man would make a good husband."

"But how will you be able to judge of this? You are an heiress, and of course you have many suitors. Do you believe that any one of them would not be willing to do a charitable deed for a while, if they supposed that upon this issue depended the hand of the wealthy heiress?"

"Perhaps you are right," said Margaret, thoughtfully; but she added suddenly, "An idea has just come into my head, by which I think this embarrassment can be avoided."

"What is it?" asked Olivia, curiously.

"Let me confess, in the first place, that among all who are generally considered suitors for my hand—perhaps fortune would be the most appropriate word—there is none whom I would think of as a husband except Herbert Lee and Henry Ainsworth. The former, you know, is wealthy, the latter a clerk, dependent on his income, which, I should judge, was not large. Now, I have a mind to subject these two to a test."

"A good idea; but how will you manage it?" asked Olivia.

"You know that there is a poor family on Allen street, the one of whom we heard of, consisting of a mother, who is sick, and three young children. Now I am going—anonously, of course—to recommend this family to the charitable offices of both Herbert Lee and Henry Ainsworth, and we will see the result. They will not recognize your hand-writing; therefore, I want you to take pen and paper and write a note at my dictation."

Olivia procured the writing materials, and her cousin dictated as follows:

"DEAR SIR: Though a stranger to you, I take the liberty of calling your attention to the cause of my poor family now living in a single room in Allen street, who, in consequence of the illness of my mother, who has supported them by plain sewing, are reduced to extreme want. A little aid at this time would be to them like the visit of an angel from heaven. Will you extend it? At least, call upon them, and you will be convinced that this is but a simple, plain statement of the truth."

The note was copied and dispatched through the post-office to the address of both gentlemen.

Perhaps three days afterwards, Herbert Lee called at Margaret's residence. Margaret adroitly led the conversation to the subject of charity and charitable institutions.

"Ah," said Herbert Lee, "that reminds me of an odd circumstance. I received a letter the other day, recommending to my notice a poor family in Allen street. It was signed Charity, and advised me to go and see them."

"And did you go?" asked Margaret quickly. "No," was the laughing reply. "I haven't time to waste in hunting up all the destitute families in the city. I should have my hands full."

"But the family may be suffering for want." "If they are Charity would be in better business in relieving them himself than in sending anonymous letters of advice to others."

Would Herbert Lee have laughed so merrily if he had known the effect of his want of feeling on her whom he was most anxious to please?

"I think, after all," said Margaret, when Herbert had withdrawn, "that I must go and see Mrs. Green myself. If Henry Ainsworth is no more charitable than Herbert, he will fare very hard."

The ladies arrayed themselves for a walk. A few minutes brought them to the residence of the widow of whom they were in search.

To their surprise they found, on being admitted, that a cheerful fire was glowing in the stove, while a pleasant smell of dinner filled the apartment. On the table by the side of the window was some medicine. The hearth was brushed up, and the room, though scantily furnished, presented a neat and very comfortable appearance.

Margaret looked around in surprise. "I was led to believe," said she, "that you were in great want."

"So we are," said Mrs. Green; "but thanks to the generosity of a noble young gentleman, who stepped forward to our relief, we are no longer so."

"Indeed, who was it that thus befriended you?"

"His name is Ainsworth. He sent for a doctor for me, and at his own cost purchased food and coal, so that, by the blessing of God, I hope soon to recover my health, and then all will go right once more."

After a little more conversation Margaret and her cousin withdrew, leaving with Mrs. Green some money for her present necessities.

That evening Herbert Lee offered his hand to Margaret Baily, and to his surprise, no less his discomfiture, she refused.

A week afterwards Henry Ainsworth made his appearance. He seemed unusually thoughtful.

"A penny for your thoughts," said Margaret, gaily.

He looked at her earnestly a moment, and then replied: "I will indeed tell you the subject of my thoughts, and ask you to forgive me afterward. It is, I know, an act of presumption for a poor clerk to speak of love—to marriage to a wealthy heiress, but I can not keep it secret any longer. I love you, Margaret, with truth and sincerity. Do you pardon me?"

"No," said Margaret promptly, "for you have said nothing that requires it. And if you do indeed think me worthy of taking, you may have me and welcome."

"Do I hear aright?" was the delighted reply. "How have I deserved such good fortune?"

"Listen and I will tell you. I had resolved never to marry unless I was convinced that he was charitable. Last week you received an anonymous letter recommending a poor family to your charitable notice. I find that you have visited them and relieved their necessities. I feel that I can safely trust my happiness in your hands, since you have nobly stood the test."

"Truly," said Henry Ainsworth, as his eyes lighted up with gratitude, "charity is its own exceeding great reward."

East and West.

Where lies the East? Morn's kindling robe
Creates that point alone.
Chase the Red Orient round the globe,
Each country hath its own.

Learn hence with what a various glance
Truth meets its each several ken:
What's East to thee may be perchance,
The West of other men.

[From the Louisiana Democrat.]

The Hon. John C. Breckinridge.

The Democrats of Kentucky seem resolved upon sending their distinguished chief, Breckinridge, again to the U. S. Senate after the term of his ex-officio Presidency over that body shall have expired. Men of ability have occupied the Senatorial seats at the disposal of Kentucky since Clay retired, but she has not had that super-eminent influence in national affairs which she wielded when that accomplished statesman and great orator reflected the lustre of his talents upon the State which had abundantly honored him. This influence is remembered with mingled pride and regret, and the feeling in favor of attempting its restoration grows stronger and general. For accomplishing this all eyes are turned upon Breckinridge, the brightest star of Kentucky's constellation, outshone by none in the national galaxy. There is a decisive Democratic majority in both branches of the Legislature consisting of members whose appreciation of party organization will render certain the election of the caucus nominee.

As a member of the august body over which he has presided with ability and dignity, the favorite son of Kentucky would take high rank. He would enter upon the discharge of his Senatorial duties in March, 1861, just after he had completed the fortieth year of his age, having passed two years as a member of the Legislature of Kentucky, two years as a Major of infantry in the late Mexican war, four years as a member of the U. S. House of Representatives, and four years as Vice President. His polished manners, his impressive figure and bearing, his entertaining and graceful conversation, the purity of his private life and the well-known civility of his character, would give him a great social influence. To a clear head and a vigorous memory, he unites strong analytical powers; and having given the best part of his life to the study and discussion of public affairs, under circumstances propitious to the rapid acquisition of accurate information, he would not be apt to experience any inconvenience or embarrassment in any debate whatever. The most astute tacticians and the oldest debaters of the lower house, found a match in the then youthful Kentucky. Twice in succession he has won a seat in that house against veteran politicians, the first time overcoming a large Whig majority, and defeating the popular, laborious, and eloquent Genl Combs, the second time increasing his own majority and defeating the great Whig champion, ex-Governor Letcher, who had never before been beaten in a political contest.

In the Senate he would have an appropriate field for the exercise of that convincing, powerful, and finished oratory in which he would find few equals and no superiors among his fellow Senators. Those who have not been so fortunate as to hear him speak can have but a faint conception of the musical rhythm of his organ-toned enunciation, the nobleness of his finished action, or of the contagious energy of his manner. In addressing a political assembly his oratory is like one of the mountain-born rivers of his native State, springing from pure fountains, gathering volume with its progress, swelling among gigantic cliffs, surging and whirling over rocks, dashing through chasms and thundering down precipices with resistless majesty.

But in spite of the growing desire of the Democrats of Kentucky to send Breckinridge to the Senate, his name, with or without their consent, will occupy a place in the list of Democrats from which the Charleston Convention must choose the Presidential candidate. It is well known that it was without his seeking and even contrary to his wishes that he was selected in '56 as nominee for the Vice Presidency; his desires and those of his friends in Kentucky will have just as little influence at Charleston should it be found expedient by any positive prohibition from him can prevent his name from going before that body, nor can he forbid it, consistently with his duty as a Democrat, except for the most urgent reasons.

It is our purpose to refer to the standing and merits of each eminent Democrat North or South whose name is likely to be used in connection with the nomination for the Presidency, and who, in the event of becoming the candidate, prove acceptable to the party at large. Our list of such, to which others are to be added from time to time, begins with Dickinson of New York and Breckinridge of Kentucky.

The Fashionable Lie—"Not at Home."

"I never," said a lady, "sent that message to the door but once, and for that once I shall never forgive myself. It was more than three years ago, and when I told my servant that morning to say 'Not at home' to whomsoever might call, except she knew it was some intimate friend, I felt my cheeks tingle, and the girl's look of surprise mortified me exceedingly. But she went about her duties, and I about mine, sometimes pleased that I had adopted a convenient fashion by which I could secure time to myself, sometimes painfully smitten with the reproaches of conscience. Thus the day wore away, and when Mr. Lee came home he startled me with the news that a very dear and intimate friend was dead."

"It can not be," was the reply, "for she expected of me a solemn promise that I would alone sit by her dying pillow, as she had something of great importance to reveal to me."

"You must be misinformed; no one has been for me."

"Here suddenly a horrible suspicion crossed my mind."

"She sent for you, but you were not at home," said Mr. Lee, innocently; then he continued: "I am sorry for Charles, her husband; he thinks her distress much aggravated by your absence, from the fact that she called your name piteously. He would have sought for you, but your servant said she did not know where you had gone. I am sorry. You must have been out longer than usual, for Charles sent a servant over here three times."

"Never in all my life did I experience such loathing of myself, such utter humiliation. My servant had gone further than I, in adding falsehood to falsehood, and I had placed it out of my power to reprove her by my own equivocation. I felt humbled to the very dust, and the next day I resolved, over the cold clay of my friend, that I would never again, under any circumstances, say 'not at home.'"

CHARLESTOWN, Nov. 5.—Shields Green, one of the negro prisoners, was found guilty this morning. The first count, for treason, was abandoned, upon objection being taken by Mr. Bennett, that it was not proved that the prisoner was a free person, and therefore did not come under the statute, which reads "any free person." The sentence was deferred.

Copeland is now on trial, Mr. Bennett defending. Tranquility is in process of restoration.

Democratic Meeting in Clinton.

At a meeting of the Democracy of Clinton county, held in Albany on Monday, Oct. 24th, 1859, on motion of J. A. Brents, Wm. Vann was called to the chair, and E. Butler appointed secretary; thereupon, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the people of the Fourth Congressional District have been disfranchised and degraded by the choice of a member in the next Congress of the United States, by the partisan and reckless conduct of C. S. Morehead, James Harlan and Mason Brown, in awarding the certificate of election to W. C. Anderson, when the records of the secretary's office exhibit the fact that the Hon. James S. Christian had received a majority of the votes of the district, and that all act they deserve the censure of the impartial men of all parties.

Resolved, That we deem it our duty as Democrats, to be represented in the convention to assemble at Frankfort on the 9th of January next, and we now appoint all good and true Democrats, and old line Whigs who are acting in the convention, to elect a delegate to represent us in said convention; and should none of our citizens attend, we authorize the delegates for this Congressional District to vote and act for us.

Resolved, That in view of the momentous importance to the American people of the next annual election by the Convention of a man, as our candidate for President, who possesses integrity of purpose, capaciousness of mind, inflexibility of will, and the confidence of the nation, North and South, in the highest degree, and who has experience in the affairs of the Government; and when we look around for such qualities we find them existing in an eminent degree in the person of our distinguished fellow-citizen, James Guthrie, of Kentucky, and we hereby instruct our delegates to the Frankfort convention to vote for delegates to the Charleston Convention pledged to support him for that position, in good faith.

W. M. VANN, Pres't.

E. BUTLER, Sec'y.

The Odd Fellows of Kentucky.

This body has had an exceedingly pleasant meeting in our city. One of the most important points decided by the Grand Lodge, was on a proposed amendment to the constitution, making the Grand Lodge a movable body. The amendment was properly lost, and the lodge retains a local habitation. Following this, the Lodge went into the secret business of the order. Friday morning was devoted to finishing up the business of the session, which has been one of the best ever held in the State, and very numerous attended. A vote of thanks highly complimentary to the retiring G. M., Mr. Durham, was passed, and the Lodge finally adjourned at 11 o'clock.

We glean the following facts from P. G. M. Durham's excellent report: During the past year, though the number of Lodges has decreased, there has been an increase in the memberships and finances. There are now under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky 110 working Lodges, 5,150 members, and an annual revenue of $38,804.20. There have been during the past year 587 initiations, 143 admitted by card, and 39 readmitted, making a total of 759. There have been 182 withdrawals, 205 suspensions, 23 expulsions, and 52 deaths, making a total of 463—showing a gain of 316, and a net gain over last year's work of 178 contributing members.—Cour.

A WOMAN IN A CHILD'S TOOTH.—A child in Boston, four and a half years old, had been ailing for months. He grew thin and pale, so much as to cause great anxiety to his parents as to the nature of his disease. He often whilst at play, would suddenly drop his toys and scream out, and in the night wake up crying. At this juncture the child was taken to a physician, who became satisfied the disease was situated in the upper jaw. He accordingly administered ether, under the influence of which a canine tooth was extracted. The tooth encompassed a species of worm, which, when elongated by crawling, was half an inch in length. The head was jet black, and hard as slate stone, while the body was white and flexible. The tooth was deeply inserted; the inner end was largely perforated, and also sufficiently capacious for necessary verminulations; the paroxysms obviously resulted from the efforts of the worm to gain the marrow or inner portion of the jaw bone. The child began to improve in health at once, after the tooth was drawn, and is now well.

OUR highly esteemed and accomplished friend, H. H. Skiles, Esq., has purchased the Bowling-Green Gazette. The paper will hereafter be conducted by him, assisted by W. L. Barre, Esq., as editor. An acquaintance of nearly forty years with Mr. Skiles, has convinced us that he is a type of the true gentleman, a ripe scholar and a warm-hearted companion. We have but a slight acquaintance with Mr. Barre, but learn from those who have known him long and intimately, that he is a high-toned gentleman, an able writer, and one who is well qualified to discharge the duties of his position. At this juncture we have one objection to both of them, and that is, they are "bachelors;" that they are daily sinning against high heaven by remaining in a state of single wickedness with no one to darn their holes or sew on their buttons. We wish them abundant success in a pecuniary point of view.

Harper's Ferry Affairs.

CHARLESTOWN, VA., Nov. 4.—There has been a marked abatement in the excitement here to-day; the town is as full of people as when the excitement was at its height, and strangers are continually coming and going. Judge Russell and lady, and Mr. Scott, who were convicted in Brown's defence, left here this morning for Boston.

Coppee, who was found guilty yesterday, has not yet received sentence. Shields Green, one of the negro prisoners, was put on trial to-day. He is defended by Mr. Bennett. The evidence is closed and the case will be submitted to-morrow to the jury.

Copeland is next for trial, and Monday it is expected that the wounded man, Stevens, will be brought up.

It is almost certain that Cook will plead guilty, first submitting a written confession or statement of his connection with Brown. His brother-in-law, Gov. Willard, of Indiana, is still here.

Arrival of the Overland Mail.

LEAVENWORTH, Nov. 4.—The overland express via Denver City, with dates to the 28th ult., and $7,000 in gold dust on consignment and $23,000 in the hands of passengers, arrived last night.

The weather continued unusually favorable in the mines.

Arrival of the Overland Mail. The result was not definitely known, but so far as ascertained Steele had a majority for Governor.

Efforts are being made to induce the people to participate in the election for Delegate from Kansas, which takes place on the 5th inst. The project was proposed by the local papers, which argue in favor of non-intervention in Kansas affairs, having but recently elected a delegate of their own, who is expected to urge an immediate organization of the Territory of Jefferson.

From Havana.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A letter from Havana of 30th October, says that a report of the capture of something of that character having been discovered among certain military officers and the soldiers at Matanzas. Various arrests are understood to have taken place, but no further particulars have been permitted to reach the public ear.

ASSISTANT CLERK OF THE SENATE.—Mr. J. H. Johnson, well known to the Democracy of Kentucky as an efficient and accomplished writer, is a candidate for the office of Assistant Clerk of the Senate. Mr. Johnson has been long a member of the Senate, and has been a constant attendant on its proceedings, and has been a constant attendant on its proceedings, and has been a constant attendant on its proceedings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A dispatch to the Express says the Pennsylvania Opposition State Convention has been called for the 10th inst. to elect delegates to a National Opposition Convention of the whole Union.

A "TALL" FAMILY.—A correspondent of the Ohio Citizen furnishes the following list of a rather tall family, in Bourbon county, Kentucky.

The old gentleman is a native of Maryland, and is in his 70th year; was brought to the State of Kentucky when quite young, and has raised his family in the above county, consisting of six sons and three daughters. In the following table the height and weight of the entire family are given:

Father.....6 feet 4 inches, 200 pounds.

Mother.....6 feet 4 inches, 250 pounds.

Thomas.....6 feet 4 inches, 230 pounds.

James.....6 feet 6 inches, 215 pounds.

Sarah.....6 feet 6 inches, 165 pounds.

John.....6 feet 11 inches, 230 pounds.

Mary.....6 feet 2 inches, 150 pounds.

Eliza.....6 feet 2 inches, 210 pounds.

Matthew.....6 feet 6 inches, 230 pounds.

Eli.....6 feet 6 inches, 197 pounds.

Daughter.....6 feet 3 inches, 160 pounds.

Total 18 ft. 70 lbs. Weight, 2,298 pounds.

The family are all tall, except the youngest daughter, who is small, and of the first families of Kentucky. I might add several of the grandchildren are over six and a half feet, and are still growing.

RELATIVES OF GENERAL WASHINGTON.—A correspondent of the Fredericksburg (Va.) Recorder says: It is an error that Colonel Lewis W. Washington, of Jefferson, is the nearest relative of General Washington alive. The venerable Dangerfield Lewis, of King George, is one degree nearer. Mr. Lewis is a grandson of Fielding Lewis and Bettie, the sister of Washington, while Colonel Washington's father, the late Colonel George C. Washington, was only the son of a nephew. All the nephews of the General were bequeathed swords in his will, and two are in the possession of the Lewis family, the one worn at Braddock's defeat, besides other relics, being now at Marmion. Mrs. Laurence Washington, of Westmoreland, is an aunt of Colonel L. W. Washington, and of course a nearer relative.

DEATH OF A MEMBER OF THE LEGISLATURE. ELECT.—Capt. Fleming Wright, member elect to the House of Representatives of the Kentucky Legislature from the Second District of Louisville, died at his residence in that city on Friday morning.
